OUT ON THE LIMB with George Vierhus

PICKING UP THE threads of our daily routine again after an enforced absence of more than a month because of health reasons is a difficult task both physically and mentally.

. We have learned that it has to be done in easy stages.

Taking too big a hunk at one time means that we will pay for it later by becoming overly-tired and "shook-up".

This we have had to learn the hard way. Because this "cutting-up" job we have undergone was our first such experience along such lines, you might say, we have had to feel our way on this recuperation bit. Sort of.

Building up our energy, we think it is called.

Much to our amazement we discovered, for example, that it takes a certain amount of energy even to sit up in bed or to eat.

And to walk, wow!

All these years we had assumed that we did all that automatically.

And would you believe that it takes some energy even to write this column?

As we pound out our first "limb" for 1968, while still recuperating from major surgery, we have had to rest between paragraphs.

Before our operation we don't recall that this column ever made us tired.

Some of our readers might have felt thataway.

But not us.

IT IS DIFFICULT TO realize that one-twelfth of 1968 has already slid by and this column this week marks your editor's first written contribution in The Press for the new year.

Admittedly January, as far as we are concerned, was sort of a "lost month".

And you guys and gals are 'way ahead of us in getting used to writing 1968 instead of 1967.

By now you are probably writing 1968 without a struggle.

But for the past four weeks or so the date and day have not meant very much to us. As a matter of fact, we have had no occasion in recent weeks to write either 1967 or 1968.

Ordinarily we are always pretty slow in getting used to a new year, and we have to do a lot of erasing before it becomes routine.

And missing those four weeks of practice in January is really going to extend it this year.

POLICE CHIEF JOHN Morgan, Ken Mantle, new president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Sally Howe, regular feature writer for The Press, were guest columnists of "the limb" in January.

They did a great job and it was much appreciated by us.

But we figured we could handle it from now on in, although for a few weeks yet, it will be written at home and not at the office.

Obviously our "horizon" will thus be somewhat limited for a spell, so you may hear more about "the operation" than would be the case otherwise.

Both John and Ken discovered that "the limb" is a natural when it comes to starting controversies.

On the other hand, Sally carried the banner of the oppressed (?) housewife when she handled the column.

That's like "the operation".

Shucks, no one in his right mind will start a controversy on that topic.

DESPITE THE FACT that undoubtedly we will touch on "the operation" in this column from time to time (after all it is an unprecedented event for us), we doubt that the situation will be as bad as our nephew, Jack Vierhus, in Pennsylvania, would make it out to be.

Jack and Mary and their four lively boys live in the Pennsylvania town with the quaint name of Shoemakers-

Tomlinson scholarship winner sends thanks to planners

Mitchell Cushman, winner of the James Tomlinson Memorial Scholarship ($500) donated by the Campbell Planning Commission has been awarded a $6000 fellowship to finish his planning studies at the University of Southern California.

In a letter to the Planning Commission, Cushman reported he received all "A's" at USC last semester. Cushman's letter continued:

"Although Mrs. Cushman and I are very happy with this award, especially with its generous size, it somehow doesn't have the personel meaning that the Tomlinson Scholarship has. The reason is simple: it was the Tomlinson Scholarship which made it possible for me to continue my studies when, financially, it would otherwise have been impossible. Whatever success I accomplish, as a student and later as a planner, I owe to those of you in Campbell."

"But my indebtedness to Campbell goes further--to help the award continue in future years....With this in mind, I would like to pledge $50 or more a year to the fund until I have "repaid" the $500 awarded me. Once I finish school and am working as a planner I will continue my contributions, upping them to $100 as soon as possible.

"In the meantime, Campbell's residents could augment the fund. After all, if better planning is the need of our cities, more and better trained planners are needed. If the people of Campbell will help to keep this fund going, we future planners will make sure it is available to those following us. I look forward to your comments on my suggestions. Once again, "thanks" to the people of Campbell for helping me in my education."

The Planning Commissioners indicated their pleasure in the letter and in the fact they had selected a deserving recipient of the scholarship.

Planners set downtown zone change

In the interests of up-grading the downtown area, Campbell Planning Commission has slated a public hearing on Mar. 4 to consider re-zoning the property owned by Rosilio R. Stroppa at 73 N. Harrison Ave.

The property, long neglected, is zoned M-1-S (industrial). Richard Hogan, planning director, indicated that he did not feel the present use of the parcel is compatible with good development of the city. Hogan asked the Commission to consider rezoning it commercial or possibly for multiples.

Stroppa, who has not had a city business license since 1964, told the Commissioners he had been ill and could not operate his business as a tile contractor. He said, however, he was now ready to start up the operation.

In the past few years the property has been allowed to run-down. Junk cars and unused equipment have been parked on the lot.

The old water tower, which was originally built to provide power for the Ainsley Cannery, still stands, although the city has asked Stroppa to remove it.

Thieves hit two bars

A nimble, sure-footed burglar last week pried the skylight from The Busy Bee, 354 E. Campbell Ave., and made off with $325 from the various coin operated machines and from a hiding place back of the bar.

The burglary, which occurred Jan. 30, was similar in method to one which occurred several days earlier at Court's Tavern, 1671 S. Bascom Ave., which netted the thief $162.

In both instances several panes of glass had been removed from the skylight and the burglar had lowered himself to the false ceiling approximately 11 feet below the skylight and then either removed ceiling panels or smashed them out to drop into the establishment.

Campbell police were also investigating the "practical joke" apparently played on Michael E. Fournier, 225 Union Ave. Apt. 109A who reported to police Saturday that a gun collection valued at $3,235 had been removed from his apartment. On Sunday morning Fournier called back to report he had answered a knock at the door and on the doorstep found his collection returned intact.

Henry Batis, 1629 Calado Court, reported that speakers to his daughters' stereo and several records had been removed during the family absence.

Arrests were pending for three suspects Monday night following another week-end of reports of broken car windows caused by BB pellets being shot through the car windows from a moving yellow Chevrolet. Campbell police were questioning three youths suspected of the hoodlum action which resulted in damage amounting to hundreds of dollars and inconvenience to numerous car owners.

Chamber dinner attracts crowd

Another well-attended Campbell Chamber of Commerce Installation Banquet was held Friday night, Feb. 2, at Villa Felice, with Campbell boosters and businessmen on hand to greet new officers.

Special guests included Mayor Edward J. Rogers, Supervisor Ralph Mehrkens, James Duffield, former Campbell C of C Manager. Father John Lally of St. Lucy's Church who gave the invocation and Superior Court Judge Richard W. Rhodes.

Judge Rhodes, who acted as the installing officer for the third consecutive year, was presented a certificate of appreciation from the Chamber. John Faber of Campbell Memorial Chapel was the Master of Ceremonies. Harry Lind, retiring vice president, gave the welcome.

Kenneth C. Mantle, the newly installed president for 1968, accepted the gavel from Mrs. Dorothy Vierhus. George Vierhus, the retiring president, was unable to be present.

Al LaPlante was presented the Ambassador's Award for recruiting the most new members in 1967.

MAN OF THE YEAR

Highlight of the evening was the presentation of the "Man of the Year" award by Mayor Rogers to Don Hebard, 205 Calado Ave., for his efforts in organizing the successful bond campaign for capital improvements. Hebard was instrumental in forming a 64 member citizens committee to investigate the city's needs and to make a recommendation to the City Council. He was then appointed chairman of "Campbell Citizens for Progress" which promoted the bond campaign. Four out of the six measures on the ballot were passed successfully in the October election, with the two others losing by a narrow margin.

As a result, when the bonds are sold beginning in April of this year, Campbell will have the funds over a five year period to construct a new public library; improve its streets; build Fire Station No. 2: and a civic center with a public administration center.

The installation banquet was followed by dancing. Approximately 200 reservations were made for the annual event.

Church seeks retirement home

The Campbell Planning Commission granted the applicant, Corinthian House, Inc., a zone change from R-D (duplex) to R-E-S (apartments) on 110 feet of the property fronting Budd Ave. in order that they might construct a two story multi-purpose building and several small cottages. They now must present their application to the Campbell City Council.

Spokesman for the retirement home was Kirkley Dunn, chairman of the board of Directors of Corinthian House. He told the Commissioners that they selected this property because of its many beautiful trees, its proximity to a shopping center and easy access to the freeway.

Rose takes out council papers

Charles Rose, incumbent Campbell City Councilman has taken out papers for nomination to the council for another term. Rose, former mayor, resides at 80 Hamilton Ave. February 15 at noon is the final date for returning nomination papers.

At press time there were six other local residents who had taken out papers. They are Vice Mayor William Smeed, Dean Chamberlin, Henry Batis, Harry Lee, Robert Dalzell, and Edward J. Rogers, mayor. The council election is April 9.

The second Congress

On February 22 the second annual Congress for Community Progress will be held at West Valley College in Campbell.

The first Congress held in February last year was so successful that the Chamber of Commerce, the sponsoring organization in cooperation with the City of City of Campbell, felt that it was imperative to continue with the program this year.

It was also important, it was agreed, to review what progress had been made in the carrying out of the recommendations made in last year's Congress.

Although last year's Congress was rated a success, the attendance of interested citizens was lower than was desired.

But so enthusiastic were those in attendance of the worth of the project that many indicated right then and there that they would pass the word along and they could almost "guarantee" that "twice as many" people would attend the second Congress.

We sincerely hope "the word has been passed along" for the time is almost here for the second Congress.

The entire community benefits because the Congress generates a great spirit of enthusiasm for the positive factors of the community.

Through the eight discussion panels, it will be possible to get the grass roots response to basic issues as well as to hear the opinions of experts.

Moderators for the eight panels have been carefully chosen. It will be their objective to guide the discussion into the proper channels so that definite, concrete and workable recommendations will come out of each panel.

But despite the efforts of the moderators or the bility of the experts on the panels, unless there is a good attendance and active audience participation, the Congress will have failed to live up to its expectation.

The Congress provides the means for people to become better acquainted with each other and to channel their efforts into specific channels for the overall betterment of the community.

There is a desperate need for support from all civic, school, and church groups in the community, if the second annual Congress is to be successful.

The Congress will promote understanding and can build the community into an enthusiastic and dynamic body, provided the various organizations that form the bulwark of the community, work together.

Ideally each organization in the community should have a representative at each of the panels. These representatives should not only participate in the discussions but should also make comprehensive reports to the organizations they represent as to the recommendations that the Congress makes.

Too often communities suffer because the various organizations representing the schools, churches and other civic groups, go their separate ways without bothering to coordinate their efforts. The Congress offers these groups a common denominator.

All these organizations, as a rule, have the best interests of the community at heart. But they fail to make headway because of a lack of communication among the various community organizations.

The Congress provides the necessary communication facilities.

"Our Community, The People in Action" is the theme of the second annual Congress for Community Progress on Feb. 22.

The eight discussion panels involve issues that emphasize the theme.

The panels include: A.) Local government services; B.) Streets, traffic safety and transportation; C.) Development - industrial and commercial; D.) Social development and opportunities; E.) Community education; F.) Youth direction; F.) Parks and recreation; H.) Campbell's image.

"Scotty Campbell", a kilted Scotsman, has been selected by the Chamber of Commerce committee as the symbol of the community for the Congress as well as for future projects.

It is hoped that "Scotty" will become the "spokesman" for the community offering sage bits of advice and suggestions and that he could also act as the "co-ordinator" in various community activities such as the Congress.

For example, in the brochure-program for the Congress, "Scotty" appears in various roles depicting the the panels.

He operates a jack-hammer to illustrate the panel on streets; he views an industrial building for the development-industrial-commercial panel; he appears by a school for "community education" and with two youngsters for "youth direction"; and for "Campbell's image" he looks through binoculars.

We think "Scotty's" quote is worth repeating:

"We all work together to generate a spirit of enthusiasm for growth in all areas for our city life. Through the Congress we initiate a program that will get us acquainted with other citizens and channel talents of many in public service. The Congress will inform us and we will understand the complex responsibility of conducting the business of our city.

"We will be critical, but in a constructive manner. We will challenge and be challenged and ours will become a community of enthusiastic, dynamic, and concerned citizens.

"With this spirit we enter the Second Annual Congress for Community Progress".....

We think "Scotty" has something there.

ville. Shortly after our hospitalization Jack phoned to see how things were going.

When he had ascertained that his uncle was in good shape and improving rapidly, Jack transferred his sympathy to the readers of The Press.

In mock horror he suggested that the readers of our column in The Press would long have to suffer from exposure to the details of "the operation". He indicated that this possibly could take months.

He was exaggerating.

Shucks, we think we can wind it up in a couple more issues or so.

Incidentally, Jack and his family expect to move from Pennsylvania to this area this summer where he will become associated with his dad, our brother John, in business.

One thing for sure, Jack should save money on phone calls when he makes the move.

Before he talked to us the last time, he had first chatted with his parents in Los Gatos. He wanted to be sure he had our right number.

Once before he had rung us and we had a nice chat.

But he had meant to call his folks and had dialed our number instead.

NO MATTER HOW good the care and services a hospital may have to offer, we cannot think of a time when we would not be happy to leave the antiseptic surroundings.

Somehow we can't seem to get attached to the institutions. Even the best of 'em.

The Campbell Community Hospital in its five years of operation in this community has established an enviable record of "personalized" service. That's something that the larger hospitals are unable to offer.

But even this record of service and hospitality, plus our own built-in community loyalty, was not enough for us to request to have our stay extended when the doctor said we could leave the local hospital.

That may have been somewhat impolite on our part because everyone at the hospital had been so darn nice to us during our stay.

But we are sure they all understood why we didn't bother to take the time to say good-by.

We weren't taking any chances.

The doctor could have changed his mind, you know.

INCIDENTALLY DURING our sojourn we were in a position (mostly on our back) to gain first hand knowledge of just how dedicated and qualified the nurses really are. For seven days we had 'round-the-clock room service with a nurse in attendance at all times.

In hospital and medical parlance that is called "intensive care".

We have suggested to Dr. Paul Werthmann and Elton Admire, hospital administrator, that the label for this type of care should be changed, to something that has a less alarming connotation to those of us in the outside world.

Too many people, we learned as a result of our experience, classify "intensive care" in the same category as "on the critical list".

Shucks, in many instances, "intensive care" simply means that a nurse is needed to wake up the patient to give him a sleeping pill.

But, seriously, we recognize that it was important for the first few days that a nurse be on hand at all times.

Or so they tell us.

IT IS DOUBTFUL THAT we ever will be able to acknowledge all of the hundreds of get well messages and other tributes we have received in recent weeks.

It was heart-warming and much appreciated to say the least.

The senders ranged from college kids to retired persons but even a heart-felt and sincere "thank you" in this column will not reach 'em all.

Unfortunately some of 'em were not even subscribers to The Press.

But it did confirm something we have known for a long time.

There are an awful lot of nice people in this world.

OUR TIMING ON THIS bit was atrocious.

Not only did we miss our "going-out party" as president of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce when Ken Mantle officially took over the gavel of office but also we missed the annual convention of the California Newspaper Publishers Association.

But, as that astute philosopher once said, you win a few and you lose a few.

But all in all we think we have won more than we have lost in this case.

LONG LONG LINE--The special Motor Vehicles window at Wells Fargo Bank received a lot of attention this Monday from car owners. Long before the 10 a.m. bank opening, crowds were gathered at both entrances and the parking lot was rapidly filling. Those who failed to "queue up" will have to pay stiff penalties for late vehicle registration.

College board names twelve to citizens advisory committee

The Board of Trustees of West Valley College dipped into all parts of the college district Thursday to name 12 new members to its Citizens Advisory Committee, the Chairman of which is Leon Poe, Santa Clara businessman, to bring the committee to a full complement of 40 members.

Santa Clara led the way with five nominees. They are Mrs. Mary Byinton, Mrs. Joseph Richards, Mrs. John E. Deranja, Mrs. Lawrence L. Fargher and Tack Yonemoto.

Los Gatos, San Jose and Campbell had two nominees each. They are Mrs. Leo Sarter and Myron E. Alexander of Los Gatos; the Rev. Shirley T. Sherill and the Rev. Francis K. Murray of San Jose, and George Vierhus and Mrs. Virgil Greenley of Campbell.

S. G. Hernandez of Saratoga rounds out the list of nominees.

The Board's intent in creating the advisory committee creating the advisory committee some years ago was to make available to the Board "an advisory committee consisting of representative citizens to whom the Board might from time to time refer matters currently pending before it for the committee's reaction and advice."

Other members of the West Valley College Advisory Committee from Campbell are: James T. Hartigan, Charles Rose and James St.Germaine

PROTESTS GO-GO BAR

EDITOR:

I just happened to drive by the future "Go-Go?" establishment on Winchester and Hacienda. I suspect I'm as guilty as the next guy for my lack of concern while this building was in its permit stages. However, I feel this is not too late of a date to express feelings of future structures of this sort.

It seems a sad shame for the waste of people, time and efforts directed in that area. We have so many young people now who are suffering because of lack of guidance. Is it any wonder we have difficulties with our teenagers when older and wiser (?) adults could care less how they tempt these young people? How much kindlier and wiser to be of help by our youngsters by establishing gyms or youth centers--places where a young person could go to find a way to release his energies.

One last word on "Go-Go" places--far as I'm concerned, people connected with this sort of development can "Go--Go" straight to Hell.

Thank you,

Name withheld on request.

Mrs. Aversente of 272 Sunnyoaks, grew up on Race Street in San Jose.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Alario, who also attended Sunol School, she and her brothers and sister, and their children, make up three generations in one family who attended Sunol.

Last week 450 "old grads" held a reunion at Mariani's Restaurant. Mrs. Aversente, well known in Campbell for her "way with flowers" was in charge of decorations for the banquet tables. Mrs. Pauline Cudio was chairman of the reunion, assisted by Mrs. Charles Wistler, Cy Young and John LoCurto.

Sam Della Maggiore, County Supervisor, was the guest speaker. Many of the graduates include prominent govern mental and city officials, jurists, judges, professional men and women industrialists.

Mrs. Aversente's parents, the Edward Alarios, and her aunt, Mrs. Josephine Lamarra, were among the honored guests at the reunion.

Mr. Alario reported the school was at that time called "Little Hester". Big Hester was located on The Alameda. Sunol School, he recalled, entered a beautiful float made up of two huge white swans in the first "Rose Carnival" which later became the Fiesta de las Rosas. The float, was, of course, horse drawn. Sunol School received second prize.

THREE GENERATIONS

Mrs. Aversente, who is chairman of the Santa Clara Valley District Junior Gardeners, and who also teaches the art of flower arrangement to a group of girls at St. Lucy's School, is a member of the Campbell Garden Club.

She has taken an active part in civic beautification and is a member of St. Lucy's Altar Society. She and her husband have lived in Campbell for many years. Her brothers and sister, who also graduated from Sunol School are George Alario, now in the restaurant business in Lake Tahoe; Mike Alario, a San Jose restaurant owner and Mrs. Charles Wistler. Three grandchildren also attended Sunol: Edward George Alario, Richard Alario and Mrs. Joyce Rowe.

President Johnson's proposal to tax Americans who travel abroad appears doomed to defeat in Congress–and for good reason!

In his reluctance to curb massive federal spending both at home and abroad, the President seems to be using the travel industry and a very few Americans as whipping boys.

The foreign travel tax would not be a burden on the rich. Five dollars a day won't stop rich people from traveling abroad, but it will stop retired couples, school teachers, students, and middle income workers who have saved for years for that dream trip to Europe.

The President's claim of a $2 billion savings is misleading. Seventy-five percent of American spending abroad is done by those who travel on business and will be exempted from tax. Only $500 million or less is spent annually on pleasure travel.

Substantial unemployment and loss of tax revenue will result in both the airline and air-craft industries. A gigantic and expensive enforcement bureaucracy would be needed to determine who is a tourist and who is engaged in essential foreign travel. Any one who remembers the rationing stamps of World War II can envision what will happen in establishing travel priority.

Furthermore, any attempt to curtail American travel abroad will boomerang and lead to retaliatory measures by other countries. The $1.7 billion spent by European tourists in this country would shrink by more than the $500 million President Johnson seeks to save. In 1966 foreign airlines spent $203 million in the United States for salaries and services. More than $127 million in tickets were sold by U.S.airlines to Europeans traveling in this country. This totals $330 million which would be seriously cut back.

Foreign airlines use U.S. jets almost exclusively. What would happen to their orders and the balance of payments under the President's plan?

In many countries tourism is a major industry. Spain, for example, lists travel as its second most important industry and its number one source of dollar revenue. If Spain is pushed over the economic brink by travel curtailment, it wouldn't be surprising to have the present administration urge the appropriation of millions in foreign aid to Spain.

The unrestricted right of Americans to travel abroad is a constitutional right which has recently been reaffirmed by the Supreme Court. Speaking as one Member of Congress, I feel that if this right is to be upheld for the Stokely Carmichaels and North Vietnamese sympathizers who illegally travel to Hanoi, then the elderly couple, the school teacher, and the immigrant wishing to revisit his homeland should have the same right.

Before insisting upon an unconstitutional infringement of American liberties, I think we can bring more troops home from Europe, further curtail our foreign aid to countries who are antagonistic to the American way of life, and discontinue deficit payments in gold until nations claiming that gold honor their debts to us.

Campbell Hospital fetes 13 charter employees

Campbell Community Hospital honored its charter employees, and their husbands and wives, at a Villa Felice Dinner-Dance Banquet last week.

The occasion was the fifth anniversary of the Hospital's founding with the board of directors and their wives in attendance. Robert M. Wade, M. D., founder of the non-profit Hospital, expressed appreciation to the charter employees who have been with the hospital since its inception. He said the board appreciated their dedication and direction over the years and looks forward to many more years of happy association with them.

Robert W. Brydon, board president, presented the thirteen honorees, one man and twelve women, with remembrance pins which were a jeweled replica of the hospital building.

Those honored were: Mrs Clydene B. Allgaier, Mrs. Mary E. Barr, Mrs. Bessie A. Vizzusi, Mrs. David Hargens and Mrs. Helen P. White, all of San Jose.

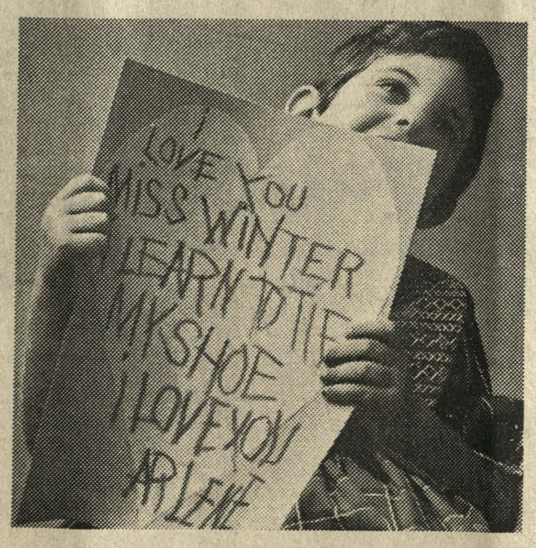
Work with the mentally retarded and this is the thanks you get.



Most days, working with the retarded is no bed of roses. It's often so difficult and frustrating you find yourself asking, "Why did I volunteer in the first place?"

It takes time and patience to teach a kid how to tie his shoe. Or build up unused muscles so an adult can hold a job. Or clean up the classroom after thirty hyperactive seven-year-olds have made a mess of it.

It's tough. But from time to time little victories occur. There's a breakthrough. Somebody gets it right the first time. Someone's mind grows better and faster than you ever thought it would.

And you feel good again.

Or a bunch of kids does something nice for you. Just because they like you. Real well.

And that's the thanks you get.

Find out how you can help the retarded. Write for a free booklet to The President's Committee on Mental Retardation, Washington, D.C. 20201.

Camden Capers

By Caren Daniels

Two Camden senior boys have qualified for the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps program. Kirk Cunningham and Roger Heath passed the ROTC achievement test, and have taken further steps including physicals and personal interviews. If they qualified with these interviews, they have one or two more before a final decision is made regarding their acceptance or rejection.

The ROTC program provides its upcoming officers with full scholarships, and an additional $50-55 a month for maintenance.

Each year the boys are required to take one or two courses of military science, but may otherwise pursue any curriculum of their choice. After graduation, the ROTC boys are obligated for five years of duty. Summer maneuvers are also required.

Kirk and Roger, if approved and become involved in this program, will choose their institutions of study among qualfying schools.

CAMDEN DEBS

"Do something for someone else", the newest project undertaken by Camden Debs, has been put into full force: working on Valentine favors and refreshments for elderly patients of the Camden Convalescent Home. The homemaking enthusiasts will present the goods Feb. 14, Valentines Day.

G.A.A. SKI TRIP

For many, the first attempt at skiing was experienced as GAA Commission members journeyed to the snow for the weekend of Feb. 2-4. As a reward for their services, GAA officers, sports managers, and chaperones journeyed to Shaver Lake for two full days of skiing, tobogganing, and snow play. Skiing at China Peak occupied the excited members' hours, with a departure straight from the slopes Sunday afternoon, concluding a tiring but enjoyable week-end.

Good luck and fond farewells were given to Varsity cheerleader Cheryl Aho at Camden's most recent rally held Feb. 2 in the boys' gym. Departing to Argentina as an AFS student, Cheryl was presented with a bouquet of flowers from Spirit Girls, expressing their gratitude and wishes to Cheryl.

SPORTS

Having a 17 point lead in the early first half, Camden's first half, Camden's varsity basketball team overcame a second half rally to defeat the Leigh Longhorns 62-42 on the Leigh hardwood. Camden led throughout the entire game, although Leigh closed the gap many times. Paul Worsham was high point man netting 26 points.

Sounds from the Camden juke box provided music for dancing at the first after game dance of the year, held Feb.2 in the cafeteria. Beginning after the basketball game between Camden and Westmont, the dance ended at 11:30 p.m.

"Scotty" says:
Come February 21 almost everyone you and I know will be reading about our friends - the businessmen and their businesses in a special edition pointing up the PROGRESS of your community and mine.

Dear Friend,

Perhaps the most concerted civic oriented effort ever made in the city of Campbell, was climaxed in February of last year with Campbell's first "Congress for Community Progress".

The response from so many, in the various related fields of the city's business-complex, at that time, assured the success of this effort for years to come, including the second annual "Congress" set for action on February 22.

A vital communications factor in the success of last year's event was the 24-page "Progress Section", in color, which provided a vehicle for scores of firms to tell their story graphically to the city's 23,000 residents plus hundreds of others in the business-world, who too, are interested in "Scotty" Campbell.

So that your firm is properly recorded in this special section, please call us soon so that we can go to work on your part in this areawide project. Phone 378-9136, today!

Girl Scouts

"Fireman, fireman–save my child!"

Nineteen Junior Scouts of Troop 371, Capri School, visited Campbell Fire Station No. 2 recently. Captains Lee Neal and Warren Clark, Main Station downtown Campbell, Sal Leonardi and Jack Christian, Station No. 2 Sunnyoaks Division, were on hand to show the girls the truck, the equipment and instruct how it is all used in saving the lives and homes of the people in our community.

The Scouts were then introduced to "Recessa Ann" and Mr. Leonardi gave a fine demonstration of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

* * * * *

It was a most informative interesting visit for Troop 371 and our "many thanks" go to the brave Fire Fighting Men who gave of their time to make us welcome. The Santa Clara County Girl Scout Council commends the men of the City Fire Departments for allowing Scout troops to visit stations around the valley.

Both Junior Troops, 420 and 371 of Capri School, are planning Valentine parties for their sister Brownie Troops 483 and 1034. This is the first of the "bridging events" planned to give the Brownies a "taste" of Junior Scouting fun.

LEARN LIFE-SAVING TECHNIQUES--Junior Girl Scouts of Troop 371, Capri School, visited Campbell Fire Station No. 2 recently and were given a demonstration of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation by Fireman Sal Leonardi.

Telephone books to be delivered

Blanketing AAA to ZZZ, the new Pacific Telephone directory for Campbell, Saratoga and San Martin will be delivered to 48,600 customers beginning Feb. 10.

Between the A's and the Z's in the white pages are 191,929 alphabetical listings of people, places and businesses. The directory has 10,867 more listings than its 1967 predecessor.

Printing the directory required 520 white pages (an increase of eight), 24 green index pages (also an increase of eight) and 288 yellow classified pages) a hike of 32 pages).

Seventy-six tons of white, green and yellow paper were needed for the printing.

Distribution will begin Feb. 10 and take about four days.

EXPLANATION--The girl (Carol Nielsen), the bike, the phone book and the location (Hakone Gardens) were placed together solely to notify Pacific Telephone customers that the new Campbell, Saratoga, San Martin directory will be delivered beginning Feb. 10.

Carol will not be making deliveries on her bicycle--unfortunately.

Make reservations now for second Congress

Twenty-five hundred letters are going out this week to local residents to attend the second annual Congress for Community Progress to be held Feb. 22 at West Valley College.

Kenneth Mantle, president of the Campbell Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the event, urges local citizens to contribute their ideas to the panel discussions. "Only by total involvement can residents of Campbell achieve the kind of community they want," Mantle stated.

A dedicated group of the community's leading educators, businessmen and civic leaders are combining talents to produce the event. There will be panel discussions concerning local government services; streets and traffic; industrial and commercial development; community education; youth direction and parks and recreation.

The Campbell Jaycees have distributed 350 posters to local businesses. The C of C is hopeful that this second Congress will be well attended and bring forth some specific plans for the improvement of Campbell in 1968.
